Danuta Pfeiffer

Danuta (Soderman) Pfeiffer was a national radio and television broadcast journalist, columnist, and talk show host for 35 years. Once called the "most visible woman in modern Christianity today," she was known as the popular co-host of The 700 Club with Pat Robertson. (Her new book, "Chiseled", can explain that.) Danuta soon returned to her liberal roots expressing her progressive views on radio stations affiliated with Air America.

She was the inspiration behind the Men of the Long Tom Grange Calendar, America's first international nude spoof calendar that raised over $650,000 for the Junction City School District.

She is the founder of the Oregon Country Trails, Oregon's only branded, agri-tourism system, representing businesses and attractions in rural Oregon. She served two years on the Oregon Travel Experience Board, appointed by Governor John Kitzhaber, and chairs the annual Long Tom Grange Daffodil Drive Festival.

Danuta and her husband Robin own and manage Pfeiffer Winery and Vineyards in Junction City, Oregon--one of most reputable vineyards in the state, and one of the first wineries to be solar-powered. Their wine isn't bad, either. Their 2007 Blue Dot Reserve Pinot noir was the only pinot to be served during a private presidential dinner. Today, she and Robin can often be found sharing their love of wine with friends and family at their winery, swimming in their country pond with their yellow labs, or sipping wine and watching for the first bats to fly at sunset at the top of their vineyard.

Featuring – “Chiseled: A Memoir of Identity, Duplicity, and Divine Wine”

INTERNATIONAL GOLD MEDAL WINNER!

Chiseled: to cut, to pare, shape with a chisel, to cut close to employ unfair practices to obtain an end, to cheat, to defraud, to trick

Through betrayals and loss and her search for redemption, an idealistic journalist becomes the unlikely co-host to a television evangelist bent on becoming the president of the United States. When her past catches up to her, she is caught in the cross hairs of politics and religion.

What Readers Are Saying:

"This is an amazing story and I had to keep reminding myself that it was a biography and not a work of fiction because the trials and struggles that the young Danuta went through defies belief. . . It is a tribute to the author that her writing was so descriptive and emotive that I was unable to put it down until the end. This story will stay with me for a long time. . . I give enormous credit to the standard of writing which made this a truly memorable read."

- Jane Finch for Readers' Favorite

"The writing style is fast-paced and engaging, and her voice comes across as genuine and authentic. . . a gripping memoir and one that I enjoyed reading tremendously."

- Gisela Dixon for Readers' Favorite

"I come away from reading "Chiseled" with tremendous respect and admiration for her. This is a powerful and courageous memoir filled with one stunning twist after another. She reveals truths about herself that are as excruciating as they are liberating. The takeaway for me: the truth will set you free, even if it hurts to tell it."

- John Dakis, Former CNN Senior Copy Editor ("The Situation Room with Wolf Blitzer")
